

C COMMERCIAL

M MOVING

G GROUP

SETTING
THE STANDARD

Every CMG Member has the BS 8522 Commercial Moving Standard

The Commercial Moving Group (CMG) is a dedicated group of companies within the British Association of Removers that specialises in all aspects of commercial relocations.

Reasons why you should always use a CMG Member.

All CMG Members...

- have the BS 8522 - Commercial Moving Standard in place which is a minimum requirement to belong to the Commercial Moving Group.
- are annually inspected by external auditors in order to maintain the BS 8522 Commercial Moving Standard.
- are vetted and approved by the British Association of Removers.
- employ professionally qualified staff who are trained to industry standards.
- have the correct vehicles and equipment in place to carry out a professional commercial relocation.
- have the experience and industry knowledge to manage, plan and execute a commercial relocation.

Let a CMG Member remove the stress away from your commercial relocation.

Relocating? Here are some useful tips from the industry experts...

Preparation - Make sure you know exactly what items are being moved, stored and/or scrapped.

Consistency - Take each moving contractor around your premises separately, making sure that the same member of your staff is present each time.

Constraints - It is essential that your contractor is made aware of any restricted access at the origin and destination. e.g. lifts, parking facilities and hours of operation etc.

Timing - You can save a lot of money by planning your timetable carefully as summer and weekends are peak periods in the moving industry. Give as much notice as possible to your moving contractor.

Evaluation - Beware of buying on price alone. What matters most is a successful result. You should expect a range of +/- 20% in the prices quoted. Otherwise you may not be getting a 'like for like' quotation.

References - rather than accept customers' references at face value, we recommend you visit the prospective mover's premises. This will give you an excellent opportunity to see the standard of their operational facility allowing you to qualify their suitability for your forthcoming move.

If you're planning an office move choose an accredited professional that you can trust.

For more information, please visit: www.barcmg.co.uk