

Helping you get from where you are now
to where you want to be.

Setting Lifetime Goals

Find direction. Live your life your way.

Goal setting is a powerful process for personal planning.

The process of setting goals helps you choose where you want to go in life. By knowing precisely what you want to achieve, you know where you have to concentrate your efforts. You'll also quickly spot the distractions that would otherwise lure you from your course.

More than this, properly-set goals can be incredibly motivating, and as you get into the habit of setting and achieving goals, you'll find that your self-confidence rockets.

Achieving More with Focus

Goal setting techniques are used by top-level athletes, successful business-people and achievers in all fields. They give you long-term vision and short-term motivation. They focus your acquisition of skills and knowledge and help you organize your time and your resources so that you can make the very most of your life.

By setting sharp, clearly defined goals you can measure and take pride in your achievement of those goals. You can see forward progress in what might previously have seemed a long pointless grind. By setting goals you will also raise your self-confidence as you recognize your growing ability and competence in achieving your goals.

Goals need to be set on a number of different levels. First, you decide what you want to do with your life and what large-scale goals you want to achieve. Second, you break them down into the smaller and smaller target goals that you must hit so that you reach your lifetime goals. Finally, once you have your plan, you can start working to achieve it.

Your Lifetime Goals

The first step in setting personal goals is to consider what you want to achieve in your lifetime, as setting lifetime goals gives you the overall perspective that shapes all other aspects of your decision making.

To give a broad, balanced coverage of all the important areas of your life, start by setting goals in some of these categories, and then in categories of your own which are particularly important to you:

- Artistic:
Do you want to achieve any artistic goals? If so, what?
- Attitude:
Is any part of your mindset holding you back? Is there any part of the way that you behave that upsets you? If so, set a goal to improve your behaviour or find a solution to the problem.
- Career:
What level do you want to reach in your career?
- Education:
Is there any knowledge you want to acquire in particular? What information and skills will you need to achieve other goals?

Helping you get from where you are now
to where you want to be.

- Family:
Do you want to be a parent? If so, how are you going to be a good parent? How do you want to be seen by a partner or by members of your extended family?
- Financial:
How much do you want to earn by what stage?
- Physical:
Are there any athletic goals you want to achieve, or do you want good health deep into old age? What steps are you going to take to achieve this?
- Pleasure:
How do you want to enjoy yourself? (You should ensure that some of your life is for you!)
- Public Service:
Do you want to make the world a better place by your existence? If so, how?

Once you have decided your goals in these categories, assign a priority to them from 1 to 10. Then review your goals and re-prioritise until you are satisfied that they reflect the shape of the life that you want to lead. Remember to ensure that the goals you set are goals that you actually want to achieve, rather than ones that your parents, spouse, family, or employers think you should achieve.

Starting to Achieve Your Lifetime Goals

Once you have set your lifetime goals, set a 25 year plan of smaller goals that you need to complete if you are to reach your lifetime plan. Then set a 5 year plan, a 1 year plan, a 6 month plan and a 1 month plan of progressively smaller goals that you need to achieve in order to achieve your lifetime goals.

Then, at the end of each day, create a daily to-do list of things you will complete the following day which will be the stepping stones towards your lifetime goals. Remember to include reading books and gathering information on the achievement of your goals in your initial to-do lists as this will help you to improve the quality and realism of your goal setting.

Staying on Course

Once you have decided your first set of plans keep the process going by reviewing and updating your to-do list on a daily basis. Then, on a monthly basis, review your longer term plans and modify them if necessary to reflect your changing priorities and experience.

Setting Goals Effectively

The following broad guidelines will help you to set effective goals:

- State each goal as a positive statement:
Express your goals positively - 'Execute this technique well' is a much better goal than 'Don't make this stupid mistake'
- Be precise:
Set a precise goal, putting in dates, times and amounts so that you can measure achievement. If you do this, you will know exactly when you have achieved the goal, and can take complete satisfaction from having achieved it.

Helping you get from where you are now
to where you want to be.

- Set priorities:
When you have several goals, give each a priority. This helps you to avoid feeling overwhelmed by too many goals, and helps to direct your attention to the most important ones.
- Write goals down:
This crystallizes them and gives them more force.
- Keep operational goals small:
Keep the low-level goals you are working towards small and achievable. If a goal is too large, then it can seem that you are not making progress towards it. Keeping goals small and incremental gives more opportunities for reward. Derive today's goals from larger ones.
- Set performance goals, not outcome goals:
You should take care to set goals over which you have as much control as possible. There is nothing more dispiriting than failing to achieve a personal goal for reasons beyond your control. These could be bad business environments, poor judging, bad weather, injury, or just plain bad luck. If you base your goals on personal performance, then you can keep control over the achievement of your goals and draw satisfaction from them.
- Set realistic goals:
It is important to set goals that you can achieve. All sorts of people (parents, media, society) can set unrealistic goals for you. They will often do this in ignorance of your own desires and ambitions. Alternatively you may be naïve in setting very high goals. You might not appreciate either the obstacles in the way, or understand quite how much skill you need to develop to achieve a particular level of performance.
- Do not set goals too low:
Just as it is important not to set goals unrealistically high, do not set them too low. People tend to do this where they are afraid of failure or where they are lazy! You should set goals so that they are slightly out of your immediate grasp, but not so far that there is no hope of achieving them. No one will put serious effort into achieving a goal that they believe is unrealistic. However, remember that your belief that a goal is unrealistic may be incorrect. If this could be the case, you can change this belief by using imagery effectively.

Achieving Goals

When you have achieved a goal, take the time to enjoy the satisfaction of having done so. Absorb the implications of the goal achievement, and observe the progress you have made towards other goals. If the goal was a significant one, reward yourself appropriately.

With the experience of having achieved this goal, review the rest of your goal plans:

- If you achieved the goal too easily, make your next goals harder
- If the goal took a dispiriting length of time to achieve, make the next goals a little easier
- If you learned something that would lead you to change other goals, do so
- If while achieving the goal you noticed a deficit in your skills, decide whether to set goals to fix this.

It doesn't matter if you don't fully achieve your goals as long as you learn from the experience. Feed lessons learned back into your on-going goal-setting program.

Helping you get from where you are now
to where you want to be.

Remember too that your goals will change as you mature. Adjust them regularly to reflect this growth in your personality. If goals no longer hold any attraction for you then let them go. Goal setting is your servant, not your master. It should bring you real pleasure, satisfaction and a sense of achievement.

Summary:

Goal setting is an important method of:

- Deciding what is important for you to achieve in your life
- Separating what is important from what is irrelevant
- Motivating yourself to achievement
- Building your self-confidence based on measured achievement of goals

Each time you achieve a goal allow yourself to enjoy your achievement and reward yourself appropriately. Draw lessons where appropriate, and feed these back into your future goal setting and achieving efforts.

If you would like to know more about setting goals or feel you need some help to make the most of this technique just click here.